HOUSEHOLDS AND FAMILIES
FOR DISTRICTS AND SELECTED
CENTRES OF POPULATION.

PREFACE

This bulletin gives final figures on households and families derived from the census of population taken in Newfoundland in October, 1945, and tabulated by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics at the request of the Newfoundland Government.

Unlike most of the information gathered at the 1945 Census, household and family information was not punched on cards for machine processing. Hence a hand count was made to obtain these data. The classification of households and the age grouping of children in families shown in the following tables are in accordance with standard practice adopted in the Canadian census. Table 1 is an historical table for the country as a whole, giving basic data on population, dwellings, and families for the 1945 and earlier censuses of Newfoundland. It is realized that the terms "dwelling" and "family" may not have been defined in precisely the same way in the various censuses. However, it is felt that the figures shown are sufficiently comparable to warrant their publication. Tables 2 to 5 give a breakdown of households by type and by size for the districts and a few of the larger centres of population, based on the 1945 Census. Tables 6 to 9 present similar data relating to families and children.

Definitions - 1945 Census

Dwelling.- A dwelling is a structurally separate set of self-contained living premises such as a single house, one section of a semi-detached house or row, or each apartment or flat in a building containing apartments and flats.

Household.- A household consists of all the persons living in a dwelling, irrespective of whether or not they are related to each other by ties of kinship. Since only one household occupies a dwelling, the number of households is the same as the number of dwellings.

Family.- A family consists of husband and wife (with or without children) or a parent with an unmarried child (or children) living together within a household. In Tables 5 and 7 of this bulletin which show children in the family living at home, only unmarried children 24 years and under are shown. Single persons, 25 years and over, reported as sons or daughters of heads of families, are not included in the number of children in the family, but are included in "total persons in families".

Single family household.- A household which contains one but only one family as defined above is called a single family household.

Multiple family household.- A household which contains two or more families as defined above is called a multiple family household.

Non-family household.- A household whose members do not form a family group is called a non-family household. This household type includes the following cases: (a) one person living alone; (b) two or more unrelated persons living together; (c) two or more related persons living together who do not constitute a family as defined above - e.g., two or more brothers and sisters.

Gainfully occupied.- A gainfully occupied person, for census purposes, is one who owns and/or operates a farm, mine, fishing gear, or other business, such as a store, repair shop, restaurant, etc., or is engaged in a trade or profession such as a carpenter, plumber, doctor, dentist, lawyer, etc., with or without paid assistance, as well as one who is employed by others on a wage, salary, commission, piece rate, or no pay basis. A person who has been employed or engaged in the manner outlined above is considered as gainfully occupied even though unemployed for some period prior to the census date, providing he (she) intends to seek gainful employment subsequent to that date. Children not attending school and employed most of the time at some occupation or who regularly assist parents in the operation of a farm, store, etc., with or without pay are also considered as gainfully occupied. However, children working at home merely on general household duties or chores or at odd times at other work are not considered as gainfully occupied.
